SCUTTLEBUT

Here, There and Everywhere

Sgts. Letsky and Sutherland, both first soldiers, were almost run over in the dark of the nite on Friday's field problem - Many things happen in the dark of the nite, including getting even with the top kick.

Your Editor wishes to toss a few orchids in the direction of the Service Club where the lovely ladies, Cassidy and Duval, hold court. You both are doing a grand job and the men of this BN really appreciate your combined efforts - Thanks a bunch.

Did you notice the very attractive recruiting signs over each tent - These signs have a dual purpose - To ever remind the 364th that it is the best reserve outfit and to help late birds to easily locate our tent area in the wee hours - Don't you agree, Drago, old boy?

Wonder if the IM of this BN really know how the 1st Sgts. went to bat for them over the weekend on a guard detail - They were really hot - However, they won their point - Nice going, fellas.

What certain Sgt in our supply went scurting with a 2 lb. box of chocolates down Hyannis way and what other certain 1st Sgt. enjoyed eating these chocolates with the lovely in the wee hours?

Our very likeably fire marshall, Ed Larisse has ordered the "Cantino" shut down-- Reason: Failure to comply with proscribed fire regulations.

The saga of the famous Cape Cod Romance involving Miss Lovely Braids has come to a sudden end - and by request at that - Always willing to oblige, D--, old boy.

Sgt. Flasket and Pvt. Larkin have duly entered the bunk making contest - Both of these bunks were a thing of beauty - Take notice Heally and K..... "The competition is getting stonger."

Col. Lazarus and Lt. Col. Burleigh paid the Officers a surprise visit Friday nite after the problem. Always nice to have you with us, gentlemen.

Orders - Just prior to the commencement of the field problem Friday nite, Lt. Bardi issued the following order, "All women, children, men over 75 and the S1 section will remain behind".

Your Editor accompanied by Lt. Col. Ulano had dinner at the Provincetown Inn - Delightful dinner - highly recommended - Also hear that an exceptional dinner is served at the new Coonamissett Inn.

Sgt. C. Donoghue (see cartoon) after many, many visits to P-Town has finally succumbed and has joined the artists colony. Being a computer man he dully used brush and easel on the trackerhead - Motif, modernistic and definitely green - His work to be exhibited by Cpl. Cook in the Battery area - Just too, too ducky.

Ed, our new Chief is very considerate as he tip toes into his tent each a.m. (see cartoon) - To keep the record straight, every a.m. Ed checks fire safety so that you and I can sleep safely and soundly on our very comfy spring mattresses.

Supply journal entry of 28 August - from CI to S4 - Trobren - Running noses at CI - Lick up Kleenex at COs tent.

Saturday afternoon at the Treadways Inn - The Officers engaged in a golf tourney-- Maj. Chervonic cleaned up. Toz who has been crowing about his golf ability was strangely silent - Incidentally none of the boys have paid up as yet. Major S is herewith offering his services as an attorney to issue summons to enforce collection. It's a pleasure Charlic - No fee will be charged.

The contestants have finally gotten together - The big game is on Wednesday nite - Officers v. the IM - Don Muller pitching for the Os: Marvin Muller for the IM - Don Muller completely out of condition. Step up gentlemen, place your bets.

Believe it or not it can happen and does happen--"Chuck" Low, out on a real hot date leaves his lovely sitting while he goes window shopping in I-Town and not for her - and she was such a doll at that.

Seen at the Officers Party--The long and the short of it--Lt. Nolan a polkaing with Mrs. Withcrow.

It may seem credulous but finger bowls were served at the noon meal Sunday. So unaccustomed are we to this higher type of restaurant service that we thought it was an additional drink.

Dot Withcrow commenting to Claudine Dulberger on the ball field - "This is where the fathers play their sons, I mean, the Officers play the IM". Incidentally, both ladies are Officers wives.

It is now Sgt. "Liberace" O'Connor - After visiting the Service Club your Editor was delightfully surprised as our own "Liberace" was playing the piano along side that gorgeous redhead, Miss Cassidy of the Service Club and as his fingers nimbly touched the keys of the piano he looked deeply into her hazel eyes as he crooned the song he was playing. Nice going, Libby, old boy.

The BN has been affectionately called many names during the past years. The latest "The Gold Stocking Outfit" is very appropriate in view of the fact that Gloria Vanderbilt autographed a poster "To the Wonderful Men of the 364th".

The Officers party was a tremendous success. The dinner was excellent, accommodations grand - sailing, golfing, swimming was available and the fair sex lovely. Heard for the first time a song collaborated in by Lts. Nolan, Murphy and Janitz. They promised to allow your Editor to publish this number.

For a time the only unhappy person at the Officers party was Lt. Low but later on did his chest swell as he paraded into the party room leading a bevy of girls - Nice going, Chuck.

Did you notice the two lovely daughters calling our Lt. Dulberger "Daddy" - Congratulations, Lt., you have two fine looking girls.

Capt. Withcrow's rendition of the "Sow Song" was rendered just slightly ineffectual due to the antics of an entertaining bartender. He was so well received that Capt. Withcrow took up a collection for him.

Capt. Withcrow, Major Trotta, Lt. Nolan and Lt. Murphy as usual were the life of the party. It was also nice to see so many lovely ladies seated at the Officers tables.
